175 ENTOMBED TODAY IN UTAH MINE EXPLOSION

All Available Doctors In Salt Lake City Are Summoned

DETAILS LACKING

Dust and Smoke Pouring From Mouth of Mine—Not Known If the Mine Is Afire

Associated Press

CASTLE GATE, Utah, Mar. 8.—One hundred and seventy-five men employed in the Utah Fuel company's mine were entombed by an explosion today. Dust and smoke are pouring from the mouth of the mine, but it is not determined if the mine is one fire. Details are lacking and it is not known whether or not there are any survivors. Castle Gate is 116 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. A call was sent there for all available doctors and nurses.

STREETS MUST BE CLEARED AT NIGHT FOR FLUSHING

To facilitate the work of cleaning the streets in the business sections in the early morning, the police department request automobile owners to take their cars in at night.

In order that the streets be flushed near the gutters it is necessary that they be clear of all cars and other vehicles. There are city ordinances which require the removal of cars for such purposes and the police department will strictly enforce them.

Most of the street cleaning will be done during the early morning hours when the streets are free from traffic. The work is now going on several hours daily and will continue so until the streets are thoroughly cleaned.

F. A. M'DANIEL BROUGHT BACK

Former Business Man Held for Writing Bad Checks, Jumping Bond

Fred A. McDaniel was brought from Evansville, Ind., yesterday and is now held at the city jail on charges of passing cold checks. He has been indicted by the grand jury, according to officers, and his trial in circuit court is set for Monday.

The defendant is charged with giving a check for which there were not sufficient funds to the Lexington Motor company of Cincinnati. The amount of the check was $1400. Representatives of the motor company will be here Monday to assist in prosecuting the case.

Several months ago McDaniel was held under bond in the cold check case. He escaped and went to Evansville at which place he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Smith who brought him to Middlesboro yesterday.

TO RESUME CANADA PEAK OIL CO. DRILLING MONDAY

Drilling will be resumed at the Canada Peak oil company's test well Monday, it was announced today. The work was stopped recently because of the illness of the foreman driller. Officials of the company say that they have splendid indications of oil but it is not yet known in what quantities it will be found.

START REPAIR OF ROAD TO FERN LAKE MINES

Work of repairing the road to Fern Lake mine by some residents of the vicinity began yesterday. A voluntary crew of men is engaged in taking large stones from nearby places and putting them in the road to form a solid bed. It is thought that the road will be rendered passable in a few days.

BAREFOOT BOY ON STREETS YESTERDAY SPRING HARBINGER

Early signs of spring are beginning to appear daily now. The most noticeable one yesterday was that of a barefoot boy.

Despite the chilliness of the day, the cold breeze that made overcoats feel particularly appropriate, the boy, apparently about 11 years old, was walking along the road near Noetown. He was dressed in warm clothing, though the shoes and stockings were conspicuously absent.

Perhaps the boy was merely rushing the season like the women who wear spring hats before Christmas, or it may be that his winter's supply of footwear is exhausted.

LEONARD WOOD, JR., NOW IN OIL PROBE

Many Other Prospective Witnesses To Be Brought Before the Investigators

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—The special senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty today issued a subpoena for Leonard Wood Jr. to question him concerning the story that the deal involving the cabinet appointment was proposed by oil interests is at the Chicago Republican convention. Other prospective witnesses before the Daugherty committee include several Ohioans, politicians and other associates of Daugherty in Columbus and other cities. Their names are withheld.

Senators Pause in Oil Inquiry For, Levitous Excursion, Into Classics, Parodied for Occasion

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—After having been gassed for weeks in the heavy fumes of oil and scorched by the flames of partisan debate, the Senate Tuesday found a welcome relief in a few moments of comedy—an excursion into the classics, parodied with the names and subjects of the hour.

Senator J. Thomas Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, renewing an attack on Edward L. Doheny, made a tour into the realm of literature and struck Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, in his home spot. The result was a passage at words that sent the galleries off into roars of laughter in which Senators on the floor joined without restraint, in strange contrast to the usual studied decorum of the chamber.

Senator Heflin was referring to Mr. Doheny's tax refund of $10,000 by the Treasury Department which he diverted to a parody on the classic tale of Abou Ben Adhem. Substituting "Dough Heenie" for Ben Adhem, Senator Heflin read:

"THE GOLDEN FLEECE"

Abou Dough Heenie (may his tribe increase),
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace
And saw within the moonlight room,
Making it rich and like a lily in bloom,
A Senator writing in a book of gold,
Enormous wealth had made Dough Heenie bold;
And to the Senator in the room he said:
"What writest thou!" The statesman raised his head,
And, with a look which made Abou bold,
Answered, "The names of those who speak for oil."
"And is mine one?" said Abou.
"We will see," replied the Senator;
but Abou, cheerfully,
Responded, in a still and softer tone:
"Write me as one who loves to make it plain."

The Senator wrote and vanished.

The next day
He came again—it looked like Caraway,
And showed the names of those whom Fall liked best,
And, lo, Dough Heenie's names led all the rest.

While the chamber and galleries roared, Senator Lodge, the Republican leader and literature of the chamber, was not caught napping. From a typewritten sheet in his hand he replied with a parody on Longfellow's "Brothers and Sisters Have I None," reading of Vanderlip as follows:

"But my aunt's washerwoman's sister's son
"Heard a policeman on his beat
"Say to a laborer on the street
"That he had a letter, just, last week—
"A letter which he did not seek—
"From a Chinese merchant in Timbuctoo,
"Who said that his brother in Cuba knew
"Of an Indian chief in a Texas town,
"Who got the dope from a circus clown,
"That a man in the Klondike had it straight
"From a spy in a South American State
"That all will man over in Borneo
"Was told by a woman who claimed to know
"Of a well-known swell society rake,
"Whose mother will undertake
"To prove that her husband's sister's niece
"Has stated plain in a printed piece
"That he has a son who never comes home
"And who knows all about the Teapot Dome."

Senator Heflin seemed satisfied and resumed his speech, while the august Senate listened in better temper than it has enjoyed for several weeks.

Kansas Senator Indignant At Accusation Yesterday Linking Him Up With the Oil Interests

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—Senator Curtis, of Kansas, assistant Republican leader, took the witness stand today, voluntarily, before the oil committee and denied under oath some statements made about him yesterday in the testimony of Ira Bennett, Washington Post editorial writer, and declared some of the conversation described never took place and that he performed no service for Edward B. McLean like those attributed to him by Bennett and that there was absolutely no ground for attempting to link him with the mysterious "principal" mentioned in one of Bennett's telegrams to McLean.

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS RECEIVED

Caught Dress In Fire of Open Grate While In House Alone

The third fatality from open grates and stoves in this vicinity within the past month occurred yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Sarah Jones died from burns received in this manner at her home on the Belt Line.

Mrs. Jones was alone in the house at 6 a. m. yesterday when her clothing caught on fire from the open grate. By the time help arrived she was seriously burned. She died from the effects of the burns at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Jones who was 68 years old was a widow. She is survived by three sons, Beth Partin and S. V. Partin of Middlesboro and John Partin of Pineville. Funeral was held today and interment took place at the Partin cemetery.

HARLAN WOMAN DIES OF WOUNDS

Victim of Jealous Ex-Husband Leaves Little Girl 6 Years Old

HARLAN, Mar. 8.—Mrs. Lena Gerley, who was wounded last Tuesday by John White, died Wednesday at the Harlan hospital. One half hour before her death she was conscious, and related the events leading up to the shooting. According to her story it seems that she was driving along in her car, on her way to Baxter, when a car parked across the road in front of her and prevented her from passing. She thought that some assistance was needed and as she stepped out, John White approached her and without a word of warning, drew his gun and shot her twice in the neck.

From reports, it appears that White was infatuated with Mrs. Gerley, who divorced him some time ago and in spite of his efforts she refused to have any thing to do with him.

White, said to be a very tall fellow and only about 22 years old, got into another car and as soon as he did the shooting and demanded the driver to rush him to Harlan. Before getting to Harlan he got out and turned up into Ivy Hill. He is known to have spent the night at Bill Middleton's, just below Gatun, Tuesday, and having spent the night at the home of Alvard named North on Beech Fork Wednesday night. At one of these places he reported he shot two revenue officers." Officers of the law are on his trail and he will soon be taken, is the opinion in Harlan now.

Mrs. Gerley had been married twice before. It is understood, to Sam Lewallen and then to J. F. Morgan, but she was called Mrs. Gurley because Gurley was her maiden name. She was 24 years old and the mother of a 6-year-old girl by her first marriage. Just before she died she called for her child and her first husband.

Says Radio May Reveal Thought; Shows Possibilties of Vacuum Tube

If ever there was prospect of revealing the mysteries of thought and its attendant brain processes, it is more certain now than it ever was. Radio is the cause.

No less radio scientist than John Stone Stone of San Francisco, Calif., foresees the tremendous possibilities in the field offered by radio. Stone holds more than 120 patents for telephone and telegraph inventions and has done remarkable service in the field of wireless. Last year the Institute of Radio Engineers awarded him its medal for his wireless work.

Thought, scientists generally agree, is the product of the minutest waves or impulses in the brain. Somehow or other attempts are made to relate mental telepathy to this description of thought. But positive proof has not yet been produced.

The three-element vacuum tube, however, may be the means by which this mystery may be solved. According to Stone:

"The audion, or three-electrode vacuum tube amplifier, is a veritable electrical microscope whose power to magnify electrical effects is enormously greater than the visual magnifying power of the corresponding optical instrument.

"May we not reasonably expect that in the near future this prodigious magnifying power of our electrical microscope will be used to detect and measure the minute electrical impulses upon which all our physical functions are predicted?

"Indeed, may we not look even further forward with the hope that by means of this electrical microscope of almost limitless magnifying and resolving power we may be able to detect and study the brain currents which accompany thought—the brain currents which may indeed be the stuff of which our thoughts are made."

"MAMMA DOLL" IS CAUSE OF MUCH UNDUE CONCERN

PARIS, Ky., March 8.—As a negro truck driver unloaded a crate in front of a Millersburg store the other day, he heard emanating from the box a plaintive cry of "Mamma." Badly scared he found Policeman Joseph Williams and declared there was a little baby in the box.

Williams accompanied the negro and found a number of Millersburg college girls gathered around the box, who also declared they had heard the cry of a baby.

Hastily securing a hatchet, Williams forced one the box, each blow of the hatchet bringing for the the cry of "Mamma."

When the lid was removed a talking doll was found lying on top of the other contents. Pressure of another box caused it to give forth the cry. Officer Williams mixed the perspiration from his brow. The negro breathed a sigh of relief and the college girls giggled.

Department of Justice Refuses to Give Official Information On Names of the Two Congressmen

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—The department of justice today declined to disclose the names of two congressmen referred to in the Chicago grand jury report. Attorney General Daugherty, however, offered to transmit to the House in response to its request for evidence said to indicate improper use of influence for a consideration which developed in Chicago. Representative Longworth immediately moved the communication be referred to the judiciary committee with instructions to report immediately with regard to the course of proceedure. Before the house could act, Representative Zihlman of Maryland took the floor.

He declared he had it on reliable authority that his name was mentioned in connection with charges. He declared he wanted action and could demonstrate that he had done no wrong. While Zihlman was speaking Representative Langley of Kentucky was seated in front of him. Langley previously told the house his name was brought into the inquiry and that he was innocent.

A few minutes later the house adopted the Longworth resolution but not before Representative King, Republican of Illinois, made a bitter attack on John Crim, who represented the department of justice at the Chicago investigation. King called Crim a "crook," who went to Chicago to dig up something to blacken the name of every member of congress.

A Thought

They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.—Ps 107-23,24.

All things in the natural world symbolize God, yet none of them speak of Him but in broken and imperfect words.—Henry Ward Beecher

FOR KENTUCKY GOLF TOURNAMENT HERE

After the successful year of conventions last year, Middlesboro people are particularly interested in bringing here this year the state golf tournament in June. A formal invitation to hold the tournament here has been extended to the state association and the advantage of Middlesboro as the tournament site is being urged from various sources.

The local golf course, aside from the fact that it is one of the oldest golf courses in the United States, is also one of the most beautiful. Visitors who have golfed on all the country's most famous courses are always moved to rhapsodies when they visit our country club.

It is indeed a privilege to stand at the first tee, or on the porch of the club house and look out across the lovely green course, skirted by natural shrubbery, then on to the hills which rise in the distance and farther off to the green-covered mountains of the distance, their tree-fringed tops silhouetted against the sky. It is a scene one never forgets and never tires of.

To this, then, is added the exceptional excellence of our golf course. It has but nine holes, it is true, but a plan has been worked out by which the state golfers may quite easily play the tournament here. The contours of this course, the natural hazards and the smooth greens have won it praise from all who have played on it.

The Middlesboro Country club feels certain that the state golfers will be glad they came, once they get here. The club members are asking that all Middlesboro citizens who have any influence in the matter lend their help in bringing the tournament here.

THE MUSCLE SHOALS SITUATION

The Manufacturers' Record published at Baltimore, in commenting on Muscle Shoals in its issue of February 14, says:

"The Tennessee river and Muscle Shoals are one of the nation's greatest assets. The development of hydro electric possibilities at Muscle Shoals would result in opening a long stretch of the Tennessee river for navigation, and thus a two-fold service would be rendered the country. In both respects here is an asset of measureless value which should be utilized not for individual profit alone but for the broadest service to the great stretch of country in which the river and Muscle Shoals are located.

The advocacy by the Manufacturers' Record of the offer made by the three Southern power companies, and in connection therewith an offer for the production of nitrates and the manufacture of fertilizers, has attracted widespread attention throughout the country, and voluntary letters have come to us from many sources in enthusiastic praise of this position accept this offer in preference to the one made by Ford.

"Mr. Ford's plan has been in our opinion unwise from the beginning. He has demanded a hundred-year lease on Muscle Shoals, and this should not be given to any individual or combination of individuals on earth; for it stretches into three generations the ownership or control of a power of such measureless value. The terms of his offer have always been indefinite, and the Congressional committee has tried in vain to get him to appear in person and explain in detail his offer, and meet the questions that would be raised. He is asking Congress to transfer Muscle Shoals to him for twice the length of time which water powers are granted by the laws of the land.

On the other hand, the associated power companies of the South, and some of the leading chemists of the nation, have united in propositions which lift the whole undertaking far beyond anything that has ever been promised or suggested by Mr. Ford, or by anyone else. The acceptance of this offer would guarantee the production of nitrates and of fertilizers by men whose ability and whose achievements rank as of national concern, and by the acceptance of this offer this power power would be developed to the utmost feasible extent, and by a superpower system be made available for the great stretch of territory from the Carolinas to Mississippi, and from Mobile on the Gulf through Tennessee and the adjoining region. It is an offer fraught with tremendous possibilities for Southern development. Its acceptance would result in concentrating all of the influences and all of the capital back of these power companies and their associates into hastening as rapidly as possible the industrial and agricultural development of the South in order to create a market for this enlarged hydro-electric power development.

"The very suggestion stimulates and quickens the thought of every man interested in the broadest utilization of the limitless resources of the South."

BORROWING AS A PRACTISE

The following editorial from the Jackson (Ky.) Times upon the subject of 'Borrowing' covers so clearly the issues in the campaign against the $75,000,000 bond issue that we will ask our readers to read every word of it.

A great deal has been said and written about the State of Kentucky going into debt to build its roads and for other purposes.

Our State is something like a man, who coming to the world begins borrowing immediately or perishes. The child borrows from the mother for its very life itself, and continues to borrow until self-supporting, and then begins paying its debt but to the next generation.

But for the fact that we are all borrowers we would make a sorry start if any and be a mighty poorly educated population. What if the mother would say to the child 'You are to pay as you go' what would become of the child?

But for the fathers' aid in maintaining and educating what kind of a man would result? Few of us pay as we go. None of the great corporations, industrial or municipal. They all issue mortgage bonds and make their improvements from the sale of the securities.

What of our State. Will we deny the State we say we owe better than life itself that which we grant our children and other people's children.

Why not give the State a chance to become a lender, not leave it to plunder in the mud for generations to come. That is what piping as we go means when applied to the State.

Our great nation has been built up by borrowing, not paying, as we go. Improvements made now soon pay for themselves. Where the money is in large amounts the required sum have to be borrowed and from a lot of people.

In issuing bonds for the much needed improvements for the State of Kentucky only ordinary business methods are advocated. It is not in experiment or something new. We are a borrowing nation and people and the wonderful improvements we have are the result.

The American nation stands today as a monument to our system. A great country surpassing anything on earth and builded in a few generations, as against the untold centuries consumed in the upbuilding of the old world, which, by the way, paid as they went, or tried to.

This is the whole story. Not a railroad in America has ever been, or ever will be built by the pay as you go method. The amount of public improvements or of business extensions that have been financed in that way are trifling. There is not in all of America a single man who would hesitate for a moment if he were in the place that Kentucky is to borrow this small sum and put his plant in order.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

SATURDAY

Belief in Jesus

Read Mt. 7:21-29. Text: 7:24. Everyone therefore that heareth these words of mine and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man.

In order to believe in Jesus therefore, it is necessary to see first of all what his ideals are and how he proposes to realize them. They stand out in simplicity and clearness in the Gospels.

1. God is a powerful heavenly Father near at hand, all men should pray to him and work with him for an honest and friendly world.

2. Men must work together with unmeddling good will for human brotherhood, for a civilization in which every man will wish for all other men such a fair chance at all good things as a man would like his brother to have.

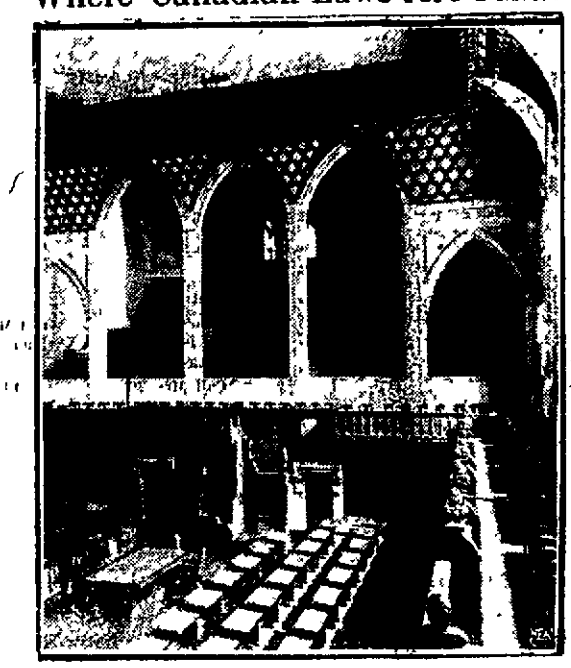
3. Men should with growing conviction count upon an opportunity after death to continue working together for the common good.

Meditation. Jesus sought to present truth in such fashion that his hearers would not only believe it but would be gripped by it and inspired to put it into practice in their daily living. One who does that, Jesus said, is a wise man.

Personal Question: Are the standards of Jesus practical?

Prayer: Almighty God, encourage us to draw near to thee in sincerity and in truth. Save us from a worship of the lips while our hearts are far away. May we have true wisdom to learn thy truth and to do thy will. Amen.

Where Canadian Laws Are Made



This is an excellent view of the Canadian Federal House of Commons, Ottawa, Canada. The legislators now are in session.

It is the whole story. Not a railroad in America has ever been, or ever will be built by the pay as you go method. The amount of public improvements or of business extensions that have been financed in that way are trifling. There is not in all of America a single man who would hesitate for a moment if he were in the place that Kentucky is to borrow this small sum and put his plant in order.

Berton Braley's Poem

MILL FODDER

(More than a million children between 8 and 16 employed in American industry.)

A million weary children who labor all the day,
A million weary children with scanty chance to play,
In fields and mines and factories throughout this wealthy land
The labor of these little folks is ever in demand
Oh, we're "enlightened little people" and all of that—but still
A million children labor in mine and field and mill

Long, long before the schoolbell rings their tolling has begun,
And when the "gang" is home from school and study hours are done
And it is time for journeys sport in God' good open air,
A million weary children can take no pleasure there
They're bent above their daily task "acquiring craft and skill,"
A million weary children in field and mine and mill

On backs too frail for burdens the load of toil is laid,
And hands that should be light and free are fettered to a trade;
Lips meant for careless whistling are set in weary lines,
And there's an everlasting ache in tired childish spines.
And all-to-tired eyes of youth are watching stamp and drill,
A million weary children in shop and mine and mill!

Our trade may grow and prosper, expanding on and on,
But while a million children are stunted, pale and wan,
While business waxes father on laborers like these,
No decent human conscience can wholly be at ease
It is a monstrous evil, excuse it how we will—
A million weary children in mine and field and mill!

An optimist is a politician before election.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 13—THE LITTLE GIANT BOY

"Where did you come from?" he giggled.

The next person the Twins met in Beanstalk Land was a little boy—a little boy for Beanstalk Land but a very big boy for any other place. The Twins were not half way to his shoe tops.

'What's the matter, little boy?' called Nancy as loudly as she could.

But whether it was because she was so tiny or because he was making such a noise with his wailing, the little Beanstalk boy didn't hear a word.

'Boo hoo, hoo!' he roared. 'Oh, oh boo, hoo hoo!'

'What's wrong?' yelled Nick at the top of his lungs, making a ring with his hands around his mouth at the same time, so that really almost anybody would have thought that there was a fire somewhere.

But still the boy didn't hear.

'Climb up and shout in his ear,' suggested Nancy. 'Perhaps we can help him.'

So up climbed Nick, with the help of his little green shoes. He did it so quickly and the little boy was crying so hard that the Beanstalk boy never noticed that he had a visitor until he heard a voice right beside his ear, wanting to know what the trouble was.

'Wh—who are you?,' cried the Beanstalk boy. 'Are you a fairy or something?'

'No just me,' laughed Nick. 'I mean just I. And the other half of me is down there on the ground beside you.'

'Ooo! I'm afraid to look,' shivered the boy. 'How can you be alive if there is only half of you?'

"Don't be afraid," Nick assured him. "We're twins, you see."

So the Beanstalk boy peered first at Nancy, and then taking Nick off his shoulder with his huge hand looked at him, too. 'Where did you come from?' he giggled. 'You're awfully cute.' Are you fairies, or toys come to life or what? I never saw anything like you before.'

So Nick told him as loudly as he could how they had planted a magic bean like Jacks and when a big beanstalk grew suddenly to the sky, they had climbed it as quickly as they could. And that was how they happened to be in Beanstalk Land.

'What were you crying for?' asked Nick suddenly.

'Crying? Oh I forgot, so I was,' exclaimed the boy. 'Boo, hoo, hoo! I have to go to the dentist's and have a tooth fixed at 10 o'clock and I don't want to.' And he started to cry all over again, so hard that Nick thought he was going to be drowned.

"Where do you live," shouted Nick.

'O—over there!' sobbed the boy. 'Over there in that red house, and it's nearly 10 o'clock now.'

Nick slid down to the ground, where Nancy was waiting. 'Say,' he declared. 'I don't blame him for yelling. I don't like to go to the dentist's either. Perhaps we can do something to help him. What do you say if we go over to the red house and see what can be done.'

'I don't think we ought to do a thing,' declared Nancy. 'If he has to go to the dentist's, that's all there is to it. I hate cowards.'

But Nick wasn't so sure. 'We fellows have to stick together,' said he. 'And I'm going to do something. You can come along if you like.'

So poor Nancy had to go whether she wanted to or not.

Not Still Then

I will worry when
Heaven sounds the sad alarm
That God's great everlasting arm
No longer shelters me from harm,
But not till then.

I will worry when
Blossoms cease to bloom in spring,
When birds forget their songs to sing
And laughter loses all its ring,
But not till then.

I will worry when
Sunset sky no longer glows,
Nor storms give birth to fair rainbows,
And doomed is Earth's last lovely rose,
But not till then.

I will worry when
Worry makes my courage strong
Or puts in my heart a song
To help my daily task along,
But not till then.

"Beginners' Luck"

CHICAGO, Mar. 8.—A former state's attorney, now engaged in private practice, was appointed by the court to defend a penniless prisoner.

Court attaches, for a joke, told the defendant his lawyer was just a beginner. But in only 30 minutes the attorney had won a verdict of "not guilty."

"I can't pay you boss," his grateful client said. "But take the name of this boss and bet on him."

"But I never play the races," his counsel insisted.

"Well, do it now," replied the defendant. "If yo's as good a beginner at the races as yo' is at law, yo'll sho' win big."

DAILY MENU FOR THE STOUT AND THIN

Lose Weight

One large orange, 1 cup consomme with 1 poached egg, 1 large serving broiled shad, 1 cup stewed tomatoes, 1 head curly endive, 6 blades celery, 2 tablespoons strawberry fluff on 1 split lady finger, 2 slices gluten toast, 2 gluten rolls, 1 pint buttermilk.

Total calories, 1011. Protein, 300; fat, 235; carbohydrate, 476. Iron, .0179 gram.

Drop a poached egg on a plate of consomme and serve with bread sticks toasted crisp.

The entire family will enjoy broiled shad. For those who are not dieting to reduce lemon butter should be served. For the reducing diet nothing but lemon salt and pepper should be used for seasoning.

The strawberry fluff is made by beating the white of one egg, one cup fresh strawberries and three-quarters cup sugar until the mixture is very stiff. This is then piled on spongecake or lady fingers.

As this menu is lacking in fats one tablespoon of French dressing can be used on the endive if a strict diet need not be followed.

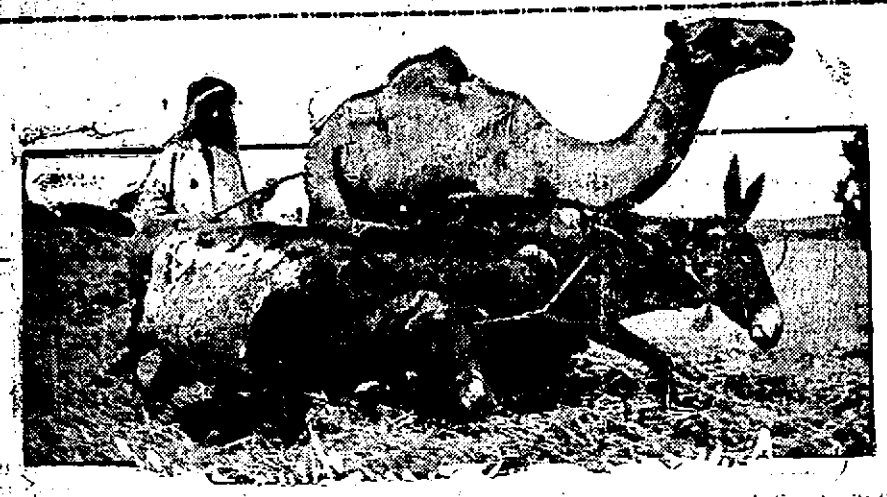
LENT IN THE HOLY LAND



ANCIENT THRESHING METHODS IN THE HOLY LAND are still in use in many parts of Palestine, despite the advent of modern machinery. This particular farmer is using his camel, donkey and two cows to tread out the grains by repeated trampling over the straw.

THE SEA OF GALILEE is but 13 miles long by 7 miles wide—but its fame has become worldwide through its importance in Christ's life. Four of His disciples were Galilee fishermen, who became "fishers of men." In a boat off its shores, he preached to multitudes. On its beach he performed the miracle of loaves and fishes. He stilled storms and walked on its waters. Miracles of healing were performed on its shores.

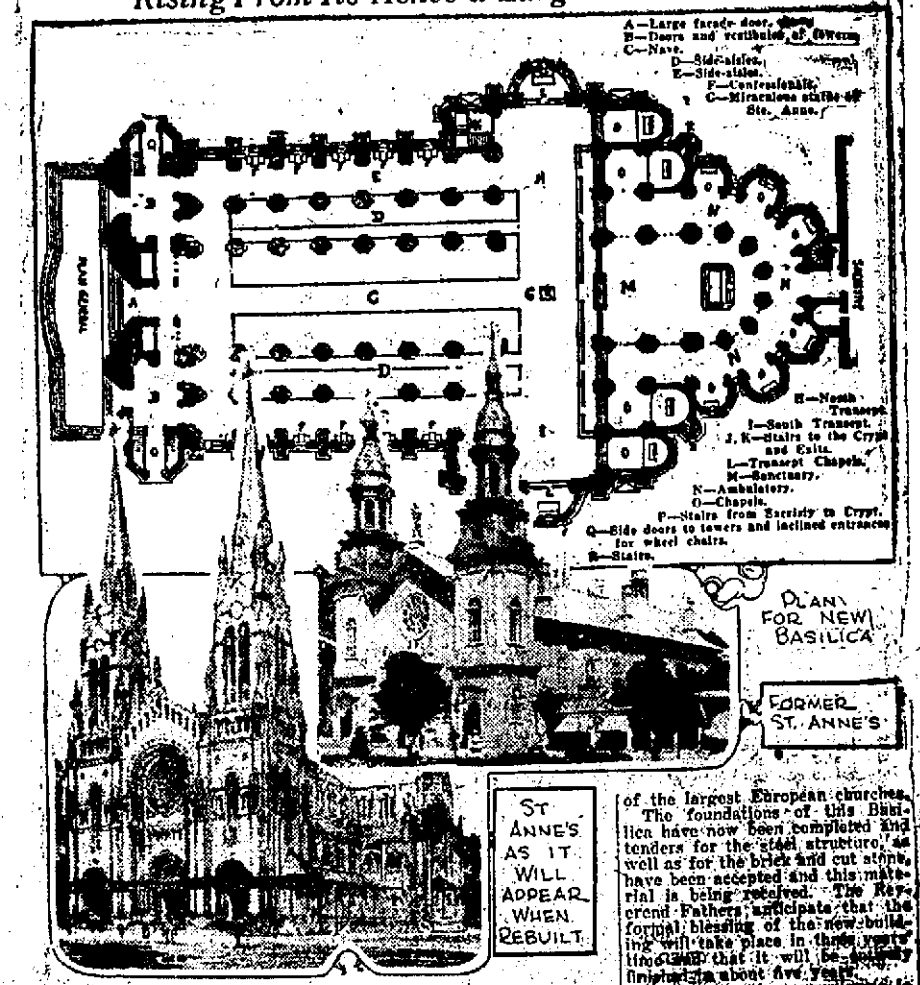
Canada's Famous Miracle Shrine of Ste. Anne Beupre Rising From Its Ashes a Larger and Finer Basilica



What is the present situation at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, site of the world-famous shrine on the St. Lawrence, below Quebec, and the famed Basilica destroyed on March 20th, 1922, to which thousands of pilgrims annually made their way? The answer will interest all who have heard of the miraculous cures effected there and all who value Canada's points of historic interest.

The ashes of the disastrous fire had not ceased to glow before an appeal for funds for the new Basilica was issued and negotiations for the preparing of the new plans were under way. These plans were quickly drawn up and approved. They call for a building which will eclipse the old. It will be of combined and modernized Gothic and Roman style and absolutely fireproof, in the shape of a Latin cross of which the arms will form the transept, as in French churches of the Middle Ages. It will have five naves and seven bays like the cathedrals of Paris, Cologne and elsewhere in Europe. There will be two arched chapels at the extremities of the transept and twelve with altars in the great crypt. Altogether the church will contain 26 altars. The length will be 312 feet, the height of the grand nave 85 feet and the superficial area covered about 42,000 square feet, dimensions which compare very favorably with those of the largest European churches.

The foundations of this Basilica have now been completed and tenders for the steel structure, as well as for the brick and cut stone, have been accepted and this material is being received. The Reverend Fathers anticipate that the formal blessing of the new building will take place in three years' time and that it will be wholly finished in about five years.

In the meantime, unanimous in the resolve that the sacred shrine must on no account cease to function, they have provided a temporary church which to some extent meets the emergency. A contractor was found who promised to erect in seven weeks a wooden edifice according to plans furnished by the Fathers, and this building was rushed to completion in the time specified. It stands near the ruined Basilica. The length is 164 feet, the width 82 feet including the eight side chapels which are eleven feet deep, each containing an altar for Mass and a confessional. The seating capacity is 1,900. To this shrine vast throngs of people still make pilgrimage.

Now Kids Are Happy

VALONA, Cal., Mar 8.—Snow hasn't fallen here within the memory of Valona's oldest citizen.

Yet, despite this shortcoming, Valona was a quiet, peaceful village up to that day, a few weeks ago, when the movie folk came in with their imported "snow."

The white drifts of studio manufacture, aroused the children's curiosity. Parents were bombarded with questions. Finally, desperate measures of relief were taken.

The whole town hired a special train and went to Truckee, 400 miles away. There for a whole day the kids frolicked in real snow.

Now, woe be to the youngster who mentions snow to his dad.

Yet They're Twins

FLORENCE, Italy, Mar. 8.—They're twins, yet each was born in different towns. The first made his bow to the world in the little village of Brozzi, five miles from here. A doctor, fearing complications, then ordered the mother to a Florence hospital. She gave birth to the second soon after admittance. There was just two hours' difference in the children's ages.

P. V. H. S GIRLS TROPHY WINNERS

Take Second Place in Basketball Tournament—Boys Not So Fortunate

POWELL'S VALLEY, Mar. 3.—The Powell's Valley High School girls brought home the silver trophy for second place from the basketball tri-county tournament which was held at LaFollette last Friday and Saturday.

In the first game our team met the Well Springs cagers. It was a fast and exciting encounter and not until the last half did the P. V. H. S. girls really get into the fight for victory. At the close of the first half the score was 5 to 0 in favor of Well Springs. In the third quarter they almost held their own by ending with the big end of the 9 to 8 score. In the last quarter, then, the score was 11 to 10, when right at the last a personal foul gave our team a chance. The first try failed but the second tied the score. During the last five minutes P. V. H. S. got two field goals and their opponents one, ending the game 15 to 13 for P. V. H. S.

Winning this game left for our team Cotula which had eliminated the LaFollette and Valley View teams. The final was exciting, but our team failing to win the trophy.

Those playing on the Powell's Valley team were: Pearl Moyers, Elizabeth Farris and Pearl Brewer, forwards; Etta Brewer, May Lee Davis and Dallas Ausmus, guards. Substitutes were Fannie Lee Alexander and Edna Ausmus. Miss Moyers and Miss Moyers and Miss Farris as forwards and Miss Brewer as guard were stars.

The boys had an older and better trained team to meet, and could play only defensive ball. They had the fast team of Wells Springs to 32 scores and caged three field goals in the meantime. Those on the team were: William Lawrence Ausmus center; Clifton Moyers and Robert Lambert, forwards. Subs were Chesterfield Snoderly, Frank Hull and Frank Sharp.

Attendance at the tournament was large, indicating the increasing interest in athletics. The boys and girls report a very enjoyable trip.

Prof. Henry Rogers took a flying trip to Atlanta, Ga., last week, bringing back with him a new Buick.

Fred R. Sharp, now with the L. and N. at Corbin, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. H. A. Sharp.

Miss Effie Gudyer, Red Hill teacher, has been ill.

Miss Elizabeth Farris escaped uninjured from an auto wreck which occurred which she, in the car with four others, was attending the LaFollette tournament. The car turned over, but all escaped except a man behind them whose leg was broken when the car backed over him. He was taken to the hospital and is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Bold Madon shopped in Middlesboro Tuesday.

Red Hill school has only two more weeks and attendance is remarkable. Teachers this year have particularly stressed athletics and physical training and the health of the children has been unusually good.

Fred Patterson is visiting his mother and son, Mrs. Hester Welch and Erastus Patterson, this week.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Dr. Douglas At Chapel

The Rev. Dr. Douglas conducted the devotional exercises at chapel Friday morning. Dr. Douglas gave a short talk emphasizing the value of an education. He compared an educated man with an uneducated one and showed how much more value the educated man is to himself and to mankind than the uneducated man is. Dr. Douglas recounted several interesting anecdotes which were enjoyed very much.

Books For Library

A shipment of books has been received for the High School library. These books consist mostly of reference books on history, science, foreign languages and other subjects. These books were paid for with funds which the High School students raised in their carnival last winter. The books are now being catalogued and will be placed on the shelves of the library in a few days.

Select Play Cast

The characters for the Senior play have been selected and work has begun on the play. The play, "Come out of The Kitchen," was selected after careful consideration. It will be given on the evening of April 18.

The Seniors have ordered their Commencement invitations. They interviewed representatives of several companies and, finally agreed on an invitation. The invitations will be received about May 1.

Several High School students and teachers went to Barbourville today to see the High School play in the Southeastern Basketball Tourney.

Several boys have been warming up during the past week for baseball and track. However, regular practice will not start until Monday. There is a wealth of material out for the spring sports and Coach Kilpatrick hopes to mould two winning teams out of this material.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

The City of Poor Fork, Ky., desires bids on engineering, specifications, Profile, etc., of approximately 5,000 feet of streets to be improved with concrete, with curbing, approximately, 38 feet wide, bids to be in the office of F. C. Isaac, city clerk, incorporation City of Poor Fork, Ky., not later than March 18, 1924.

ANNOUNCEMENT

It was my intention to leave Middlesboro but conditions have changed and the urgent appeals from my friends have been a big factor in my decision to remain here and resume the practice of medicine. I wish to make this public announcement and offer my service to all, from this date. I will, in the near future, take a post-graduate course and a greater part of my work will be devoted to children's deseases.

Dr. E. D. Wells, from Huntington, W. Va., will take over my eye, ear, nose and throat work after April 1.

Texas Lady Says Her Family Has Been Taking Thedford's Black-Draught, When Needed, for Many Years.

Alto, Texas.—"We inherited the use of Black-Draught in our family," says Mrs. Mary Shuptrine, who lives near here on R. F. D. 2. "My grandmother was an old woman when she died about ten years ago, and she had been using it literally ever since I can remember. She gave it to her children and grandchildren for biliousness and stomach complaints, so when I went to housekeeping we just naturally used it, too.

"I give it to my children for a purgative whenever they need one, and we are never without it. Made into tea, it surely is fine. It's the best-acting remedy for headache and constipation I know of."

During over 90 years of its continued popularity, Black-Draught has become the standard liver medicine in many thousands of homes, where it has been found of great benefit in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, indigestion and other common liver, stomach and bowel complaints. The million packages of Black-Draught are now sold a year, as many old users people are learning of the value of this well-known remedy.

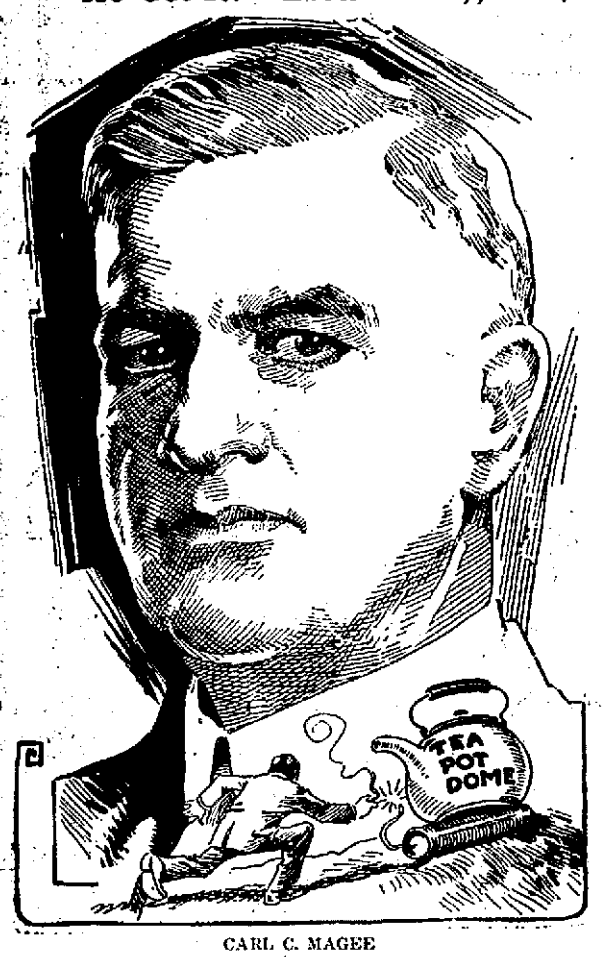
Editor Magee Wondered "Where'd He Get It?" Blew Lid Off Teapot



CARL C. MAGEE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—Albuquerque, New Mexico, is famous for its healthy climate. It has made many sick folks well.

Yet it is the very healthfulness of Albuquerque that is responsible for the present troubles of Albert B. Fall, former U. S. senator and cabinet member, and for the "nerves" of a score of political leaders.

For had Albuquerque not offered a chance for health to his wife, Carl C. Magee would not have given up a law practice of 16 years' standing in Tulsa, Okla., to go there.

Had Magee not gone to Albuquerque he would not have been the center of an inside political fight in New Mexico the past four years.

He Raised Question

And had Magee not been on the inside of what was what in New Mexico, he would not have stood before the Senate committee investigating Fall's leasing of naval oil lands and demanded:

"Where did he get it?"

That query, first raised before the committee by Magee, turned the attention of the committee from routine consideration o fwhether the leases made by Fall had been wisely made to the matter of whether corrupt consideration had entered into their making.

Following Magee's challenge of "Where did he get it?" the committee unearthed the evidence of $100,000 delivered to Fall in a satchel by the son of Edward Doheny, one of Fall's lessees.

When Magee went to Albuquerque in 1920, he purchased the Alburquerque Morning Journal, then owned by Fall, John W. Weeks, now secretary of war, the Chino Copper Company, and other interests.

Right away he started saying what he thought.

He lambasted the administration of school lands which gave grazing privileges to a few influential politico-ranchers.

He dug into the tax situation which let rich mining interests pay low taxes if they made big political contributions.

He revealed how private bank accounts were being fattened by the interest on public funds privately deposited.

Then his notes were called. In the showdown, Magee was forced to sell his paper.

Immediately, though, he started another.

Followed every sort of pressure and intimidation—suits for libel, citations for contempt of court, fines, sentences to prison.

But fighting every inch, Magee so roused popular support that the governor was forced to pardon him.

Fall Broke, Then—

"When I was called to Washington to testify before the committee investigating the oil leases," Magee says, "I samply studied the layout as New Mexico politics transplanted to federal affairs.

"I knew that Fall had been broke in 1920. He told me so at the time he sold the Journal. His taxes hadn't been paid for 10 years, his ranch was run down and dilapidated.

"I know that the oil leases were made in 1921. I knew that by 1922 a new air of prosperity had come to Fall's ranch. I knew that he had made large deposits of cash in Albuquerque banks.

"He had bought adjoining ranch properties, built a hydro-electric plant and spent large sums in improving his place. His back taxes had been paid.

"Viewing the situation in the light of normal New Mexico politics, the inevitable question was: 'Where did he get it?'

"Out our way, particularly in politics, that question leads straight to the heart of most problems."

Hundreds Ask The Question. Do You Know the Answer?

How to Learn to Save

"I know I ought to save, but I can't seem to get ahead. How can I learn?

Thousands of people ask that question.

Here's the answer: Have a savings-plan—and work it. Study of the methods of successful savers shows that there are four rules common to all. However, you may adapt these rules to fit your own case, if you stick to them as the frame-work, you're bound to succeed.

Rule 1—Save for some specific attainable thing or purpose, and keep a picture of it, in every detail, always in mind.

Rule 2—Deposit a sum at regular and frequent intervals.

Rule 3—Make your savings deposit the first thing after you get your pay.

Rule 4—Let nothing prevent the fulfillment of your plan. Stick to it persistently, in spite of obstacles.

Others have made them work. You can, too!
